

Dear [X],

I'm getting in touch because next summer I'll be heading to Tanzania to climb Mount Kilimanjaro, the tallest free-standing mountain in the world, in support of Dig Deep (Africa) and their mission to transform access to clean water, safe toilets, and hygiene education for everyone in Bomet County, Kenya.

Bomet County is home to one million people, half of whom are children. Two in three still lack clean water and safe sanitation. Dig Deep is tackling this challenge by focusing on one place and working for the long term. Together with local communities, businesses and the Kenyan government, they are delivering practical projects now while building the systems needed for lasting change. Their shared goal is clear- universal access to clean water, safe toilets and good hygiene by 2035

Between now and the climb in 2027, I'll be planning a series of fundraising events, getting involved in awareness campaigns, and training for the 5,895m summit. The funds will be split 50/50 between covering my in country trip costs, and directly supporting Dig Deep's sustainable projects in Bomet County, Kenya - helping to deliver lasting change in line with several UN Sustainable Development Goals.

I'd love your support as this journey begins, whether that's through following along, donating, or helping spread the word! You can find the link to my fundraising page here. [Insert fundraising link]

Best wishes,
